carry out the contract. There is being considerable pres-sure brought to bear on the water company, by citizens not living in company, by citizens not living in the central portion of the city, for larger mains and the extension of the same. The water mains are nearly all too small for the present demands and must be torn out and replaced with larger ones. This will not be done until the present contract expires, which is about three years yet, or until a new contract is entered into between the city and the water company. Are we to wait for these much needed improvements three years? The gas works that were built about ten years ago for a population of about four to five thousand stands to-day, and make a miserabic failure in trying to supply the present city of eighteen thousand. Prohibition vs. Democracy.

During our late exciting campaign on local option, it was charged by eminent anti-prohibition speakers that prohibition was and is a political move, and that it could only be made in the interest of the republican par-ty. In a late number of the Courier-Journal there is a lengthy corres-pondence from Atlanta, written the lay after the election, which fully establishes the claim. We make liberal motations from the correspondence and call the attention of all true democrats to its sinister significance. Here is a warning, which it would be well for us to heed. This is the entering wedge which, if driven bor is to disrant democracy and split the "solid south" into a thousand frag-ments. Let Texas democrats ponder ments. Let Texas democrats ponds.

The question of increased water and gas facilities for our city has become so urgent and imperative that the average citizen is not disposed to calmly tolerate further delays, no matter what may be the pretext or excuse. The fault hardly lies with the council, who have, on repeated occasions, shown themselves ready to move forward in a prudent and conservative way, towards supplying these essential facilities. But the council are only human, and the members have been influenced to some extent, perhaps, by an idea or fracelly which is leaves to the council which may be the product of the council are only human, and the members have been influenced to some extent, perhaps, by an idea or fracelly which is leaves to the council which which is leaves to the council which which is leaves to the council are only human, and the members have been influenced to some extent, perhaps, by an idea or fracelly which is leaves to the council which which is leaves to the resulting the council are only human, and the members have been influenced to some extent, perhaps, by an idea or fracelly which is leaves to the resulting the council are only human.

White men and negroes walked around the polls with locked arms.

James A. Anderson, the chairman of the prohibition executive committee, has issued an address in which he calls "special attention to the importance of a full registration of the friends of temperance for this city election. Books open at the City hall, at No. 11 Alabama street, and on Peachtree street. The other side are registering in full force. It means mischief."

Cotton receipts at Waco continue to swell daily. Sherman, the largest grain market in Texas, sends her congratulations to the best interior cotton market in the southwest, and trusts that the planters of the rich Brazos bottoms may ever remember the central city, when they market their cotton. The very name of Waco is dear to the people of Texas and her prosperity should be a source of pleasure to the people of the whole state. It would have been much better if the new state house had been started there instead of at Austin.
